MAHOGANY

Classification, Local Names, Origins:

Based on scientific classification, the plant is included in the family / familia Meliaceae. Plants in Indonesia known as the mahogany has many names according to region or country. In Bangli called mahagni. In the Netherlands known as mahok. The French call or acajou acajou pays, while our neighbors (Malaysia) to name this plant cheriamagany. Another with the Spanish people who know him as caoba / caoba de Santo / domingo. In Indonesia this hard woody plants have other local names, ie mahagoni, maoni or Moni. The origin of this plant from the West Indies and Africa.

Performance Plants:

Plants mahogany is an annual plant, with an average height of 5-25 m (some have reached more than 30 m), rooted saddle with round stems, branching many, and resinous wood. The leaves form a compound leaf, even pinnate, leaf-shaped blade ovate, pointed leaf tip and base, flat leaf edge, bone length pinnate leaves 3-15 cm. The young leaves are red and after dark, turned into green. Flowers mahogany plant is compound interest, arranged in a bouquet that comes out of the arm pit leaves. Mother flower stalk cylindrical, light brown. Petals off one another with a shape like a spoon, green.

Cylindrical flower crown, brownish yellow. Stamens attached to the crown. Anthers white / yellow brown. This mahogany new plant will bloom after the age of 7 or 8 years. After flowering, the next stage is to bear fruit. Fruit is the fruit mahogany box with five grooved oval shape. When the fruit is still hard, will turned green, and after older will turned brown. In the fruit seeds are flat with the tip thick and somewhat blackish brown color. Fruits are already older., the fruit skin will rupture on its own, and flat seeds that will be free to fly wherever the wind blows. When the match fell to the ground will grow into plants so mahogany create new generation ...

Terms Grow and Propagation:

Plants are mahogany and many tropical plants found growing wild in the forests of teak and other places near the coast.. This plant likes the place enough to direct sunlight (not shaded). Although it is not watered for months, mahogany was still able to survive. Propagation of plants can be done with seeds, it could be a transplant or grafting. For mahogany plants that will be used as a medicinal plant, it should not be given a chemical fertilizer (inorganic) and pesticides.

Utilization:

Since the last 20 years, mahogany plants cultivated for its wood has a fairly high economic value. The quality hard wood and very good for furniture, goods, carvings and crafts . Often also made a ruler because it is not easily changed. Quality mahogany falls below the teak so it is often dubbed as the belle of the second..). For the old mahogany-colored wood is brownish red. There are several types of mahogany that is small-leaved mahogany (Swietenia mahogany) and broad-leaf mahogany (Swietenia macrophilea).

The fruits of Swietenia macrophilea are called "Sky Fruit", because they seem to hang upwards from the tree. Swietenia mahogany better quality wood than Swietenia macrophilea. While excess Swietenia macrophilea is faster and grow into a large wooden plate. Other uses of the plant mahogany is used to dye his skin clothing. The cloth is boiled with mahogany skin will turn yellow and not faded. While sap mahogany also can be used as raw materials of glue (adhesive), and leaf mahogany for animal feed also "Fruit-Flower Mahogany for Lamp Shade". Utilization of mahogany as the drug has been since the '70s. Taken is the seed. At the time of consumption is still a simple way (without being processed) by direct swallowing seeds after removing part of the flat..But many complain it tastes bitter.
