Bulk Palm Sugar

Processed naturally by our local Farmer in Musi Rawas Regency, our local Palm Sugar is a very high quality processed palm sugar. Made from the palmyra palm sap, the palm neera is processed into a bulky dark brown, and sweet palm sugar jaggery. The typical sweetness creates a distinctive flavour to the food and the beverage manufactured.

We offer our customer a bulk shape of Palm sugar Jaggery, that could be processed further as the sweetener to substitute white sugar (processed brown palm sugar) or as the ingredients in the manufacturing process in food and beverage industries.

Round Coconut

South Sumatera province is also well known as the coconut plantation center in Sumatera island. The 67.000 Hectares of Coconut plantations nearby owned by the individual farmers, provided us with plenty resources of round coconut to export. the quality of the coconut has been reckoning and attracts China, Thailand, and other importing countries to purchase our local round coconuts. The supports of our government on the infrastructures has given us the accesibilty and speed to provide our customer the quantities asked and the on time scheadule of shipping. By this far, our logistic experience in supplying our local buyers both inside and outside of the region has given us advantages and adding our confidence to trade in international markets.

White Copra

As the derivatives of coconut processed commodities, Indonesian white copra is well known as one of the high quality as the raw material of virgin coconut oil that could be produced in the importing countries as the value added.

Coconut shell charcoal

As the byproducts of coconuts processing, we believe coconut shell charcoal could be processed further as the high calories burning material, with low smoke and ashes in terms of bricket charcoal.

Wood Charcoal

Made of mixed swam peat woods such gelam wood and others, we offer a raw and refined wood charcoal for the burning and food grilling process. Providing the experience of a natural and traditional grilling process, the charcoals will fit with the needed of traditional grilling and household room heating.
